Hello, folks! This is a history class taught entirely in English to third- and fourth-year students at Aichi Prefectural University. It examines how people and cultures from different historical backgrounds interact with each other, taking Anglo-Japanese Relations (日英関係) as a good example. Students take active parts in presentations and discussions in this class. If you are interested in how social studies (社会科) is taught in English at college, this class is for you. I look forward to meeting you then.
